

WE, THE CHURCH...

Children's Ministry. Student Ministry. Culturally Engaged. Multi-Site. Leadership Development. College Ministry. Corporate Worship. It's easy to segregate these different areas of ministry, yet they are all fingers in the same glove. There is fluidity among them as they are interwoven into one living, breathing body – the church. Each of these areas of ministry are vital toward accomplishing Grace's mission to make mature followers of Jesus Christ that impact their home, the community, and the world for Jesus Christ.

We are more than just the sum of our parts. We are diverse, yet unified. We are empowered by the Holy Spirit to do more than we could do on our own. We are sinners saved by grace. We are lives that are being changed. We are His bride. We were created for His glory and His Name's Sake. We exist to make disciples and we will continue until He returns.

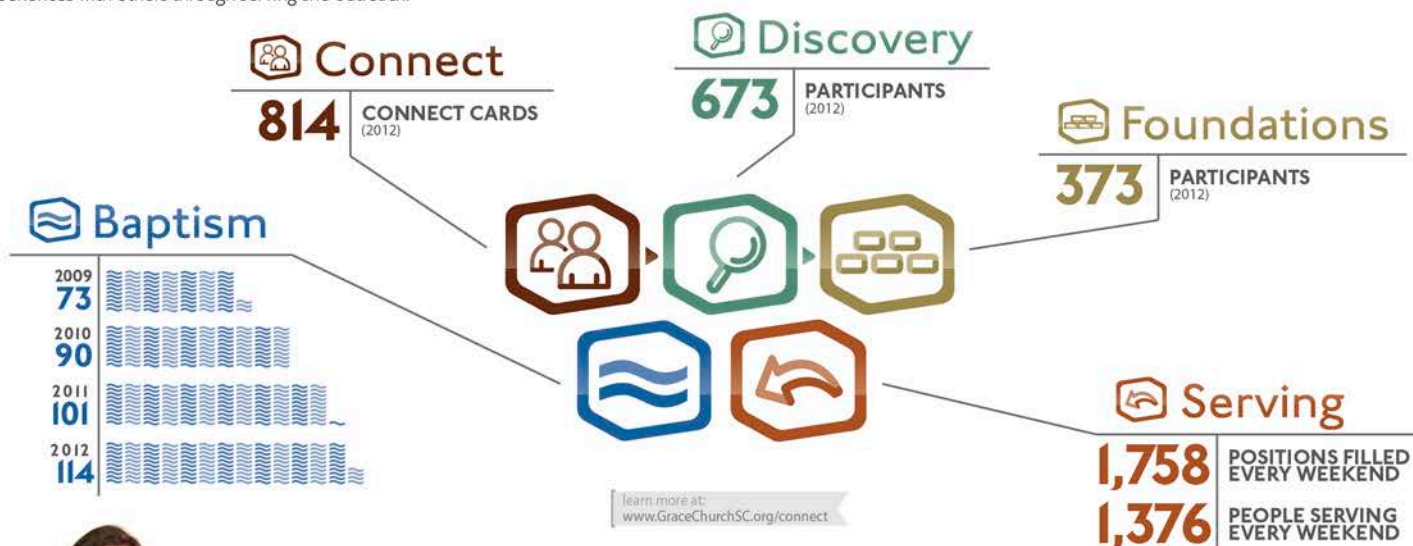

We, the church, have "One Lord, one faith, one baptism, and One God and Father, who is over all and in all and through all." (Ephesians 4:5) Our desire is to reflect that oneness through the church and live a life worthy of the calling we have received.

This communication is designed to update you on many of the exciting things that are occurring at Grace on a regular basis. It is our hope that you will see ministry from a broader perspective and appreciate the life-change that occurs daily. This spiritual growth is directly related to the generosity of those funding the church's ministry. Whether you are new to Grace or have been here for over a decade, we hope that we can partner together in this mission. At Grace, this partnership is called onefund. Over the next few pages, you will see and hear more about where we have been and how we can continue to partner with Him in the work of redemption.

LIFE CHANGE

Our goal at Grace Church is to help people experience life change through Jesus Christ. We strive to help people connect with God and others through worship and community. We have seen many come to faith and identify with Christ through baptism. Others learn about Christ and the church through Discovery and Foundations and then share their experiences with others through serving and outreach.

ANNA MARSHALL

ON SERVING AND FINDING COMMUNITY AS A STUDENT

Anna's family joined Grace when she was in fourth grade and as a result she grew up at Grace - moving through the ranks of our children's, middle school, and high school ministries. Anna believes that the sacrificial faithfulness of her small group leaders, her experience on international mission trips, and her opportunity to serve as a student leader in the Arrows program were crucial to the development of her faith. Though Anna made a profession of faith when she was six years old, it was while she was leading her girls' small group through Fusion's "Creation, Fall, Redemption" curriculum that she truly began to understand the Gospel.

After graduating high school, Anna moved to Anderson, SC to attend Anderson University. As one of only a few college-aged students attending Grace's Powdersville campus, Anna found the transition difficult.

It was through serving on the adult worship team that Anna began to find community in Powdersville. Shortly after that, Grace launched a college ministry and saw the number of college attendees rise from a small handful to over ninety students. In one year, Anna went from being one of just a few college students to part of a growing community of students that attend, worship, serve, and fellowship at Grace Powdersville while striving to be missional on their college campuses.

Through the discipleship of volunteers and staff and through the various ministries of Grace Church, the Holy Spirit has moved and worked in Anna's life. Through her eleven years attending Grace, she has grown into not only a mature follower of Jesus Christ, but also into our next generation of leadership - impacting her home, her community, and the world for Jesus Christ.

"The society we live in now teaches us to take, take, take, and we don't want to give. But giving is an investment, and in the end we wind up receiving a lot more."

"There are times where you might feel inadequate to serve, but God always gives you what you need."

- KAREN MCLEOD

"I know that I could be doing anything, but I want to spend my time serving Him, because He chose me. He didn't abandon me, and for that I am grateful. Now I get to help build the Kingdom and help others know who He is, and the way I do that is by serving."

THE ALTOMS

ON ATTENDING THE POWERSVILLE CAMPUS

Joey and Charley Altom had long respected Grace Church. "We knew lots of great people that were members," Joey said, "but as lifelong Powersville residents, we felt very strongly about doing church in our community." After being persuaded to come to a meeting about the new campus, Joey heard the elders say that Grace's multi-site strategy was more than just a way to shorten the drive; it was part of a strategy to better engage local communities.

Since the launch of the Powersville campus in February of 2008, the Altoms, along with their daughter, Mary Sullivan, have thrived. Joey credits Men's Roundtable with giving him the teaching and tools for personal spiritual growth, as well as equipping him to pour into the lives of the students he serves as a small group leader. Charley would say the Ezer curriculum has had a similar effect on her understanding of biblical femininity.

Currently, Joey and Charley lead a Community Group together and are discovering that "the emphasis placed on living in gospel community" is having a profound impact on their marriage.

The Altoms are thankful that the smaller, local church has allowed them to discover and develop their gifts through serving and leading. But they are especially grateful that, as parents of a special needs child, they have seen their daughter experience church in new and exciting ways. "She was always managed in previous church experiences, but never fully engaged - now she is experiencing love, correction, worship, teaching, and community on her own terms. The idea that she could experience a healthy church environment at such an early age is a real blessing."

PAST 4 YEARS OF COMMUNITY GROUP GROWTH

THE STIPES

ON ROUNDTABLE, EZER AND MARRIAGE

Understanding God's unique calling for each gender has changed the Stipes' marriage. Like so many couples, they have experienced periods of tension related to Craig's tendencies to step back instead of engaging and leading, coupled with Ashley's resistance to being led and her desire to control Craig. This cycle led to heated arguments, much frustration and even feelings of hopelessness. "Our relationship was based more on getting our own needs met and not on glorifying God," Ashley says.

By embracing the Ezer and Men's Roundtable material and allowing the Holy Spirit to work, Craig and Ashley now feel equipped to hold each other accountable to what God intends for them. "Understanding our core calling allows us the freedom to invite God to work in those areas where we struggle," Craig shares. "It has improved our intimacy and our communication, and has really encouraged us to be more authentic with each other."

For Craig, grasping man's core sin of passivity has been life changing. "The knowledge that all men are passive was a new paradigm for me. But now that I understand it and have a language to describe it, I can see it play out in my life and the lives of people that I am in contact with on a regular basis. As with most issues, it is hard to work on something unless you can identify the problem."

Likewise, learning that a woman's core sin is autonomy was a revelation to Ashley: "I always thought my desire for control was a personality trait." Through the Ezer study, Ashley's recognition of her core calling as a woman has given her a new sense of direction. "I can be confident and secure knowing that by focusing my energy and time towards my calling as an ezer through inviting, nurturing and partnering, I am glorifying God and carrying out His plan for my life," Ashley says. "I feel more secure in who I am and who God made me to be."

"The Parenting class that Matt and Vicki taught was such a great tool for us as we raise our young son. All of their info was very practical and based on scripture, as well as their own personal experiences with their kids. I took a ton of notes and I'm not usually a note taker.... I've referred to them many times since the class."

THE BELLS

ON SERVING IN ALLENDALE

When you ask most people at Grace to tell you about Allendale, they will likely tell you "Allendale is the poorest county in South Carolina." Not so with the Bell family. In fact, there is a running joke in their family that when you talk about Allendale, you have to mention the statistics. Instead, when you ask them about Allendale they tell you about the relationships that they built, the impact on their family and their experiences over the past 2 years.

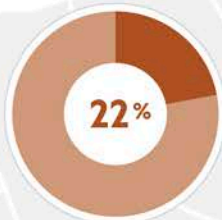

Serving together as a family has always been important to the Bell family. When Robin would teach at the nursing home, Justin and Emily would wheel the residents back to their rooms. Kelly brought her family along to serve food with her on the high school Greenville Mission Trips. This time though, Justin and Emily were the first to take interest in Allendale, and they brought Robin and Kelly along to serve with them on their first mission trip. For Kelly, "it was a unique experience to watch Justin and Emily grow spiritually, emotionally and socially."

Their time in Allendale has continued to impact their lives at home as Emily and Justin have talked about their experiences in Allendale to their friends at school: "Allendale is not just the 'poorest county' any more, but more than that, it is about the experiences, the kids and the relationships."

For the Bells, Allendale is not just a place to visit or paint a few houses, each member of the family feels ownership of the work that is continuing in Allendale. When their family heard that the Espinosas were moving to Allendale, they did not hesitate to support them: "because of our involvement of being down there and we wanted to support what Grace is doing and what Joey is doing." For Robin and Kelly, "it was really important that our kids see that the body of Christ is not Grace Church or our old church in Georgia, but when people from Allendale are also able to travel to Greenville and have real relationships, that is the body of Christ coming alongside one another."

TOM FOWLER

REFLECTS ON HIS INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCES

"In February of 2007 at the elders urging, I joined the first teaching team from Grace to go to Nicaragua. For me it was love at first sight. The people had such a love for Christ and a hunger for His Word, and yet most of the pastors had not been exposed to even one hour of the kind of Biblical training we take for granted at Grace.

In the five years since Grace has partnered with the churches in Nicaragua, I have personally witnessed amazing fruit from the training efforts of our teachers.

In Rivas, where we have been working with 60 pastors for almost a year and a half, a former student approached me and apologized for not being able to attend the classes this time. He went on to say he had taken his notes from our last class and started a church which had grown to about 50 people in the six months between. That was my kind of apology.

Four years ago, a young man named Rafa began being my translator. I knew he was hungry for the Word because several times during class he was so intent on what was being taught that he would forget to translate. When I finished the classes I gave him all my notes, and about 6 weeks later I heard from our church missionary that he was teaching "my" class to students on campus.

Rafa now leads a college ministry on four campuses in the capitol city of Managua, with plans to begin on two other campuses this year. He has notes from five other Grace courses that he has either taught or is in the process of teaching. Rafa's testimony is that the classes have deepened his and his co-workers' faith and walk with Christ. As a result, they are being more fruitful in their ministries.

I am so thankful that Grace, which has an abundance of teachers, is willing and in fact passionate about sharing these resources with the churches in Nicaragua."

DO WE BELIEVE
2 CORINTHIANS 8:7-9
IS TRUE
FOR GRACE CHURCH?

Since you excel in so many ways - in your faith, your gifted speakers, your knowledge, your enthusiasm, and your love from us - I want you to excel also in this gracious act of giving. I am not commanding you to do this. But I am testing how genuine your love is by comparing it with the eagerness of the other churches. You know the generous grace of our Lord Jesus Christ. Though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, so that by his poverty he could make you rich.

KEVIN JONES

ON STEWARDSHIP, DEBT AND LEADERSHIP

In 2004, the elders of Grace Church found themselves at a crossroads. Throughout previous years, the church had witnessed consistent growth of both singles and new families, which left the elders facing the challenge of being landlocked and out of space. As such, they began asking God for wisdom concerning how to proceed. Because the church had been gifted with a building and five acres of land, the elders had never before struggled with the issue of debt. "Collectively, I believe we all shared the belief that debt was to be avoided at all cost," Kevin Jones remembers.

The elders, concluding that they needed to seek counsel and the voice of experience, invited a trusted friend, mentor, and pastor, Bill Wellons from Little Rock, AR, into the conversation. "Bill challenged us to consider whether a lack of trust was influencing our decision making. He reminded us that it was God who would have the final say on when we completed our task of making disciples. Relying on your own ability to muscle up the necessary resources is wrong. Likewise, putting a lid on what God was doing because of our fear of debt would also be wrong."

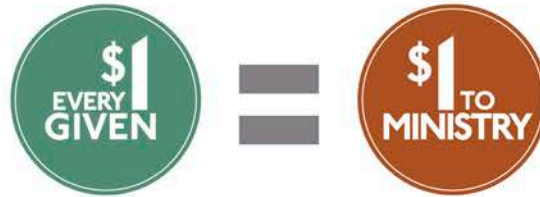

While many passages in Scripture speak to the proper management of money, there are none that prohibit debt. Therefore, the elders decided to borrow money, which enabled Grace to buy the remaining land and build the additional buildings you see today. "One of the amazing parts of the story," recalls Kevin, "is that the land was owned by Campus Crusade for Christ. All the money from the sale of the land was put back into ministry here in Greenville and internationally."

At the time the elders decided to incur debt for the sake of ministry expansion, Grace Church had approximately 1000 people attending every Sunday. Eight years later, that same decision has enabled the church to triple in size. The video resources produced at the Pelham Road campus, also made possible through the loan, have allowed the church to impact local communities in a very cost effective way through the addition of multiple campuses. "We have been aggressive about paying down and managing our debt. Our overall equity position has grown, so from a stewardship perspective, that has been positive, but most importantly, it has been a tool that God has used to make disciples both here and abroad."

onefund is a two-year ministry plan. It is not a capital campaign.

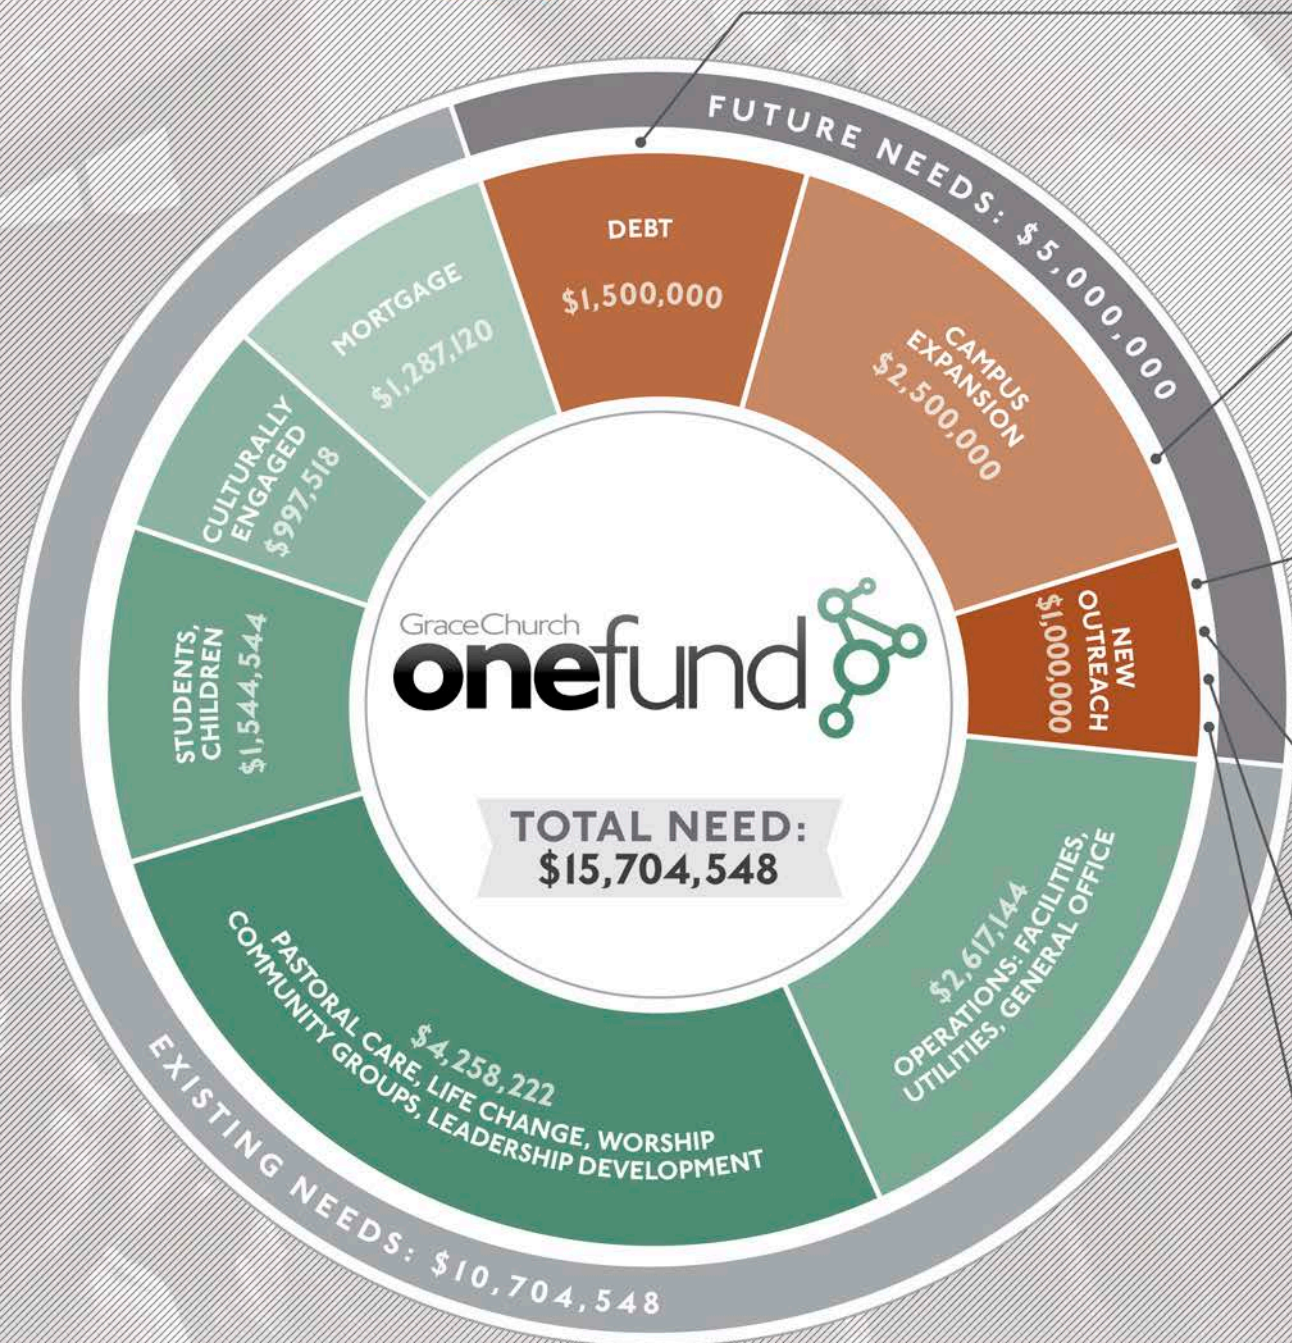

Rather, it is a strategic way to budget, allocate, educate, raise and spend our resources in a manner that helps us accomplish the mission that God has given us. This plan celebrates the fact that every dollar given is allocated for ministry. Not just one aspect or ministry of the church prospers through onefund, they all do.

onefund involves elders and staff making priorities and asking God for wisdom. But ultimately onefund involves you – it allows you the benefit of partnering with God, through the local church, to advance His kingdom here at home and around the world. We feel called not only make existing ministries even better, but also to expand our ministry and influence through new opportunities. We encourage you to become a part of onefund giving and allow God to bless your obedience and your sacrifice.

There are many things for you to consider when you are looking at making an investment in the kingdom of God. We believe that because of God's faithfulness and the generosity of individuals, we have seen a return on investment that has been felt worldwide. As we look to developing a ministry plan for the next two years, we pray that we will be able sustain our ministry to our church family, grow our church body by connecting with those that are far from God, and find ways to partner with more like-minded churches and ministries around the world.

TWO-YEAR PLAN

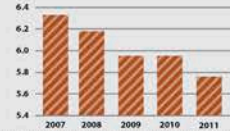

DEBT REDUCTION

In a season of growth and opportunity, Grace Church prayerfully decided to take on debt. The decision proved to be an investment that resulted in many people being exposed to the gospel, biblical community, and immeasurable spiritual growth. We now find it is time for us to pay down an additional portion of the debt so we can appropriately steward the opportunities God has placed before us.

CAMPUS EXPANSION

One Church. Multiple Campuses. With more and more people attending Grace from all over the Upstate, our desire is to provide the benefits of a large church, as well as the local and personal focus found in community churches. Our multi-campus structure is allowing people to receive instruction and resources from the church at large, while maintaining the ability to be culturally engaged and ministry focused where they live, work and play.

GRACE CHURCH BODY

As we continue to experience numerical growth, we are encountering both significant demands and strategic opportunities. One of the most pressing needs we face is expansion of our infrastructure including staff, departments and resources. Consequently, the growth is providing unique opportunities for us to develop the next generation of church leaders through Kairos, Cultor House, Fellowships, etc.

UPSTATE

We have a biblically based burden to take care of the people we live among. Through involvement with Monaview Elementary, the Bel-Aire Communities, Senior Honor, Nasha and similar organizations, we are seeing personal, neighborhood and community transformation. Our goal is to continue to provide economic and educational development through life on life interaction in order to love and contribute to the greater good of upstate South Carolina.

REGIONAL

One benefit of living in a small state is the potential to have wide reaching measurable impact. Whether that is partnerships in Allendale or church planting in Charleston, we are discovering numerous ministry opportunities in diverse cultural settings, all within the confines of our state.

INTERNATIONAL

In a world of unprecedented access and opportunity, we have the privilege of being able to do ministry all around the globe. We are training pastors, creating economic development and providing mercy ministry through strategic partnerships in Kenya, Nicaragua, Eleuthera and Papua New Guinea. We want to expand these efforts into other places around the world as we seek to help grow the local church internationally.

As we look through the story told within these pages, we can't help but be reminded of Jesus' parable of the mustard seed. From a small living room in Easley, South Carolina to four campuses in the Upstate and partnerships around the world, Grace Church has grown to become a spiritual home for thousands of people. None of us would have dared to imagine that God would bring us to this place with these opportunities in this span of time.

And while numbers don't tell the whole story, changed lives do tell the story of God's grace as the Holy Spirit continues to bring people out of darkness and into His glorious light. God has been gracious to us, pouring out His favor in such a way that even those who do not know Him are taking notice.

In light of this amazing opportunity to serve others and to make His name glorious, we must own the responsibility to worship God with the resources entrusted to us. God doesn't need our money but He does demand our faithfulness. God has given us direction from His Word to make disciples. We have a clear plan to apply that calling in our context, but we cannot accomplish it unless we all share in this responsibility. As your elders, we are calling on you to move toward generosity. We are calling on you to give so that others might know the blessings that we have known as a part of the Grace body. We cannot tell you how much to give, we can only charge you to give in proportion to God's gifts to you. Please take the time to pray and consider what God would have you do to fulfill the calling He has placed on us as His people.

- Grace Church Elders

Now all glory to God, who is able,
through his mighty power at work within us,
to accomplish infinitely more than we might ask or think.
Glory to him in the church and in Christ Jesus through all generations forever and ever! Amen.
