

Core Values: Biblically Oriented

Week 1 Study Questions

As a church, we have chosen six Core Values that help us determine the “how” behind our mission to make mature followers of Jesus. One of these Core Values is to be biblically oriented, conforming our lives to biblical truth day-by-day, and letting the Scriptures feed our souls.

Application

1. Matt described four categories of people in our church. Which of the following do you most closely identify with? What is one small decision you are going to make this week towards becoming more biblically oriented?
 - a. You are not a Christian, but you might feel inclined to study the Bible.
 - b. You are new to your faith, and your goal now should be to grow deep roots so that you are not swayed by this world.
 - c. You are consistently in church, but there has not been movement or growth in your life for a while. Your heart is hardened, and you have been sitting close to the Word and not obeying it.
 - d. You have been feeding on the Word faithfully for a long time, and you can see that the Spirit has made you fruitful and strong.
2. To be biblically oriented instead of self-oriented, we must respond with both personal devotion and constant learning. What does either of these look like in your life currently? Which one do you have a harder time with and why?
3. What is something you have recently read in Scripture or heard taught that you might be disobeying? How do you need to respond instead?
4. God says we are rewarded when we seek him, yet when we hear his Word and disobey, there will be consequences—a hardening of our hearts. Can you remember a time in your life when your heart was tender and responsive to God’s Word? Can you give an example of what that looked like and how your inward devotion to God’s Word showed outwardly?
