

Situations Guide

1. Your teacher leaves the class for a minute and you throw a wadded piece of paper across the room just as she comes back in. The whole class loses recess because she is not sure who threw the paper.

2. You forgot to clean up after playing your favorite game. Someone stepped on it and broke it. Now no one in your family can play the game anymore, and your mom has to throw it away.

3. Your family is going to eat at a restaurant you don't like. You cry and pout about it. Your parents decide that the whole family is not going out to eat anymore because of your bad attitude.

4. You are on a soccer team, and you are not following the directions the coach gave. The whole team has to run extra laps because you did not obey what was asked of you.

5. You have some friends over to play one day. You are playing a game outside, and your little brother wants to join in. You don't want him to play with you and your friends. Your mom finds out, and makes all of your friends go home because of your selfish attitude. You are sent to your room for a time-out.
